VALUE OF ORGANIZATION

THE New York Sun, after twenty-three years endeavoring to establish an individual news collecting service, has gone back to the Associated Press, the progenitor of all news collecting agencies and the only reliable factor in skimming the cream of the day's event from the world's assortment of doings. At one time the Sun was the recognized leader of metropolitan journalism under the management of that grand old man Charles Dana, but after his decease the paper fell into evil ways. The new control fancied it had such an impregnable position and such an invincible lead over all competitors that it could afford to dictate terms and assert the ideas of underlings who thought they knew more than the master mind. The first serious disturbance was when the Sun essayed to organize a non-union shop by dismissing the old force of men who had been allied all their lives with the Typographical union. This was done and the hostility of organized labor was invited. Not satisfied with this revolutionary action the management went a step further by initiating a news service of its own. The departure naturally could not assume to fill the shoes of the Associated Press, an organization built up by forty years of careful direction and shrewd enterprise with correspondents in every section of the universe. The system then, as now, had representatives at every entree of the world. These men had established a certain prestige for their principals which invested the business of gathering news with a system and a positiveness that could not be accumulated by any ephemeral competitor. Then ensued a lawsuit against the Associated Press, in which it was alleged that the association was a close corporation and a trust of such power that it could regulate world's politics. The averment was foolish, since everyone who has a membership knows the system is predicated on co-operation and that the costs of the service are apportioned according to the benefits accruing to each subscriber. There is no discrimination or exclusion and the utterances of the dispatches are without bias or coloring. The Sun dwindled in circulation through its hydra-headed contest and now, after two score years, the management has come to the realization that there is but one news agency in the world and that agency is the Associated Press, of which the Tonopah Daily Bonanza is a member.

FREAKS OF THE WEATHER

THE controversy between the old fashioned weather prophets who are satisfied with forecasting the weather twenty-four hours ahead and the small band of scientists who boldly launch into the future with predictions thirty days ahead is stimulated by the meteorological occurrences of the past three weeks. The contention rests between those who believe there is some connection between terrestrial disturbances and rifts in the solar system and the United States Weather bureau, which denounces the apostles of the new creed as soothsayers and preys on public fancy. Up to date the former have the records to prove there is some occult association of the solar atmosphere and the changes in the weather of the earth. For instance late last month the astronomers declared that the month of July would be filled with disturbances almost without parallel which would strike the middle west in the form of cyclones, tornadoes and hurricanes, while along the Pacific coast there would develop a series of storms that would mark an epoch in the history of the country. Only seven days of the month have elapsed, but during that time the daily records confirm the long distance prophets in every detail. The mountains of California have experienced the worst precipitation that has occurred in a period of forty years; the coast has reported violent winds, while the south Atlantic has been ravaged by disastrous gales. Remember, this was forecasted two weeks ago by the astronomers, so there must be something to their system. In contrast appears the weekly forecast of the U. S. Weather bureau for the first week of July, which foreshadows nothing but placidity and enjoyable weather, as follows:

Forecast for the Rocky mountain and plateau regions: Temperatures during the week will average somewhat below the normal with frequent local thunder showers, except generally fair weather over south portion.

Pacific states: Generally fair weather in California and overcast weather with local showers in Washington and Oregon; temperatures will be below the seasonal average during the week.

NO MARKET IN WASHINGTON

A MAN from Kentucky recently wrote to a prominent friend in Washington, D. C., that he had 80 head of fine horses for sale and inquired if there was any market for them in the national capital. The Washington man's reply was an epigram of truth:

"Dear Friends:—There is no market for horses here. All the poor people in Washington ride bicycles, the rich ride in automobiles, the street cars run by electricity and the government is now run by jackasses.

"Your friend,

Santa Fe, N. M., the renowned health resort, is running a close race with Tonopah as a desirable place of residence. Last month Santa Fe reported 92 per cent sunshine, while Tonopah registered 93 per cent. The mean temperature for June in Santa Fe was 66 while Tonopah was only 65. The precipitation at Santa Fe was 0.38 and Tonopah could not find sufficient moisture to report even a trace. Talk about your health resorts, Tonopah is the place, and the climate should be commercialized as one of the best assets.

BELGIAN REFUGEES ARE DECREASING

HOLLAND THE HOME OF MEN AND WOMEN DRIVEN OUT OF THEIR COUNTRY

(By Associated Press.)

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, July 7. From a million after the fall of Antwerp, the number of Belgian refugees in Holland has declined to about 65,000 today, according to official information given to the Associated Press. The rest of the terror-stricken throngs which poured over the Dutch frontier have returned to their homes in Belgium, or gone to England or France, and, to some small extent, to America.

Numerous Belgians are still arriving from over the border, driven out by the hard conditions of existence there, but this accession is apparently counter balanced by the outflow from Holland in various directions. Of the 65,000 still enjoying Dutch hospitality, 15,000 are now accommodated in the four refugee camps at Ede, Nunspeet, Gouda and Uden, while the remainder are scattered among private families.

Apart from several million dollars provided by voluntary donations, the country's hospitality had up to the end of last year cost the Dutch government some $5,000,000, while a sum of $2,000,000 has been voted for the current year that will, unless peace arrives meantime, have to be raised to probably $3,000,000. The Belgian government's offer of reinforcement was generously declined.

WOMEN TO PRACTICE

(By Associated Press.)

PEKING, July 7.—Forty-two women doctors, graduated from various medical schools, will shortly be given certificates to practice in Peking. These will be the first women granted official permission to practice medicine in the Chinese capital.

Unfortunately, the world is not full of good tea. You must choose with care. Those many women who use Schilling's Best know that the cost of good tea is very, very little.
